Welcome to Your Connection Companion

A gentle weekly planner for the family member who wants to make the next call or visit feel like more.

You already love your parent or grandparent. You call when you can. You visit when life allows. But between the busy season you're in — work, kids, the household — the time to be with them can slip by in months you didn't mean to lose.

> The Connection Companion gives you one structured page to plan your week of meaningful connection — across calls, visits, photos sent by text, and quiet moments together — so the bond grows on purpose, not by accident.

No guessing. No perfection. Just a clear rhythm that helps you cover six dimensions of bonding across the week, even when life is full.

HOW TO USE THIS IN 5 MINUTES

1. Read the Six Dimensions of Bonding (next page).
   A 30-second look at what makes a week of connection feel rich rather than repetitive.

2. Turn to the Weekly Planning Page.
   Write your loved one's name and the week's dates at the top.

3. Map your touchpoints for the week.
   For each day you'd like to reach out, write down one small act of connection — a call, a visit, a photo by text, a song shared, a question to ask. Use the Wheel as a gut check: are you touching at least 3 of the 6 dimensions this week?

4. Put it somewhere you'll see it.
   The fridge. Your planner. Your phone background. Then on Sunday, take five minutes to reflect and plan the next one.

The Six Dimensions of Bonding

A compass, not a checklist — for keeping your weeks of connection rich rather than repetitive.

Cognitive

Reminiscence, recognition, gentle mental stimulation — questions that invite stories, photos that spark memory, light puzzles or trivia.

Emotional

Feeling seen, expressing love, sharing the things that matter — saying "I was thinking about you," telling them what they mean to you.

Sensory

Music, photographs, smells, textures, the body's memory — a song from their wedding era, a favorite recipe's scent, a worn family quilt.

Social

Family time, multi-generational play, shared laughter — bringing the grandkids on a call, a video chat with the cousins, BINGO across the room.

Creative

Making things together — cooking from a recipe card, working on a photo album, sketching, gardening, building, anything hands-on.

Spiritual

Meaning, gratitude, prayer, legacy — recording their life story, saying grace, sharing what you're thankful for, asking what they want remembered.

You don't need to touch all six every week. But if a dimension hasn't shown up in two weeks, that's a signal. The Wheel is a compass, not a checklist.

WEEK OF

mm / dd / yyyy

DAY	HOW I'LL CONNECT	WHAT TO TALK ABOUT / SEND	DIMENSION(S)
Monday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Tuesday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Wednesday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Thursday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Friday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Saturday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—
Sunday	—	a question, a photo, a memory...	—

You don't have to fill every day. Even three intentional touchpoints in a week can change the bond.

Reflection & Notes

Take five minutes on Sunday. The transformation isn't in any single call — it's in the rhythm.

PART 1 · LOOKING BACK AT THIS WEEK

This Week's Highlight Moment

The one call, visit, or moment that landed — and what made it land:

What I Learned About Them This Week

A surprise, a story, a small detail you'd never heard before:

A Story or Memory Worth Saving

Write it down so it doesn't slip — names, places, the exact way they said it:

PART 2 · LOOKING FORWARD TO NEXT WEEK

The Dimension I Want to Include More

Look back at the Six Dimensions — which one was missing this week?

☐ Cognitive ☐ Emotional ☐ Sensory ☐ Social ☐ Creative ☐ Spiritual

One small way I'll bring it in next week:

An Idea I Want to Try

A photo to send, a question to ask, a recipe to make together, a song to share:

Open Notes & Ideas

Stories to follow up on, family birthdays coming up, things they mentioned wanting, anything to remember:

THIS WEEK'S THEME STARTER

Kitchen Table Memories

Every family had a kitchen table. It's where recipes were shared, arguments were settled, homework was supervised, and Sunday mornings happened. This week, invite your loved one back to that table — by phone, by video call, or by sitting across from them again.

5 CONVERSATION STARTERS FOR THIS THEME

1. "What was always on your family's kitchen table that visitors noticed?"

2. "Who was the best cook in your family, and what was their signature dish?"

3. "Was there a rule at your table that every kid had to follow?"

4. "What sounds do you remember from the kitchen — the radio, a percolator, someone humming?"

5. "If you could sit at that table one more time, who would be there?"

DIMENSION MAPPING

This theme naturally covers Cognitive (reminiscence), Sensory (food, smells, sounds), and Emotional (the people who gathered there). To add Creative: cook the recipe together over video. To add Social: bring the grandkids on the call. To add Spiritual: ask whose memory they want preserved at that table.
